Notes

HUSBAND - William Barnes Sr.
 He was under 21 when his father's will was written in 1794. He was to have the plantation when he became 21.

From: SUMNER COUNTY, TENNESSEE, DEED ABSTRACTS, 1793-1805, abstracted by Joyce Martin Murray of Dallas TX, printed by Henington Pub. Co. of Wolfe City, TX, 1988, p. 99: "Page 182 Deed 6 Jan 1801 ELISHA CLEARY to WILLIAM BARNES, in consideration of a bargain with JOSEPH BARNES, now decd, 100 acres on Turney's Creek where SELAH BARNES now lives. Wit: JOHN CLEARY, JOHN BARNES." [This John Barnes was probably William's brother]

"Page 539 Deed 1 Nov 1804 ELISHA CLEARY, to JEARRETTE SEATTE, $200, tr of 50 acres, abutting land of WILLIAM BARNES. Wit: BUTLER NOLES, KINCHEN BARNES." (p. 129)

1805 Sumner Co., TN. William BARNES is on the tax list.
 1805 Sumner Co., TN. William BARNES, Sr., is on the tax list. [I don't know who the second William is.]

By 12 Dec 1809 William Barnes bought land in Montgomery Co., Tennessee. His brothers, John and Kinchen, also came as did sister Celia and her husband Charnel Corban. Montgomery County Deed Book 1, p. 72.

A lawsuit establishes that William's wife was Sarah Sanderson, daughter of John and Elizabeth Sanderson of Montgomery Co. Oct term 1812 Montgomery Co., TN. On Motion Ordered that the order made October term last appointing the Justices to receive the list of taxable property for the year 1812 be Continued so that the said Justices make their return to the next term.

By 1815 William sold most, if not all of his land, and John and Kinchen were selling their land. John and Kinchen eventually went to Alabama. William may have also if he is the William Barnes on an 1818 petition in Madison Co., Alabama.

However, in October 1819 a William Barnes was indicted for a riot and pleaded guilty. Although there appears to have been a younger William Barnes in the county, the William involved may have been the older one. Montgomery County Court Minute Book 9, pp. 254-263.

He appears to be the William Barnes in the Alabama Territory Census in 1818 in Madison County because his sons John S. and Bennet C. were born in Alabama, according to the 1850 census for them. Son Lilburn's birthplace is not known but his children reported his birthplace variously as Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee. William Barnes Jr.'s birthplace in the 1850 census was Tennessee.

1830 Federal census of Fayette Co., Tennessee, p. 40, shows William Barnes next door to Lilburn Barnes.

William Barns Sr. resided in Yalobusha Co. at the time William Barns who married Rebecca Waits lived there. Land record: NW 1/4, S 34, T 25, R 5E, Wm Barnes, Sr., and James Jones, 159 acres, 9 Oct 1839.

Also, W 1/2, NW 1/4, S 25, T 25, R 5E, William Barnes, purchased, 80 acres, 31 Oct 1833. That William may be either the William Sr. or William Jr.

1840 Lafayette Co., MS. An older and a younger William Barnes in the census. The younger one appears to be William Jr., wife Rebecca, and son William Jefferson. The older one has a household composition different from what would be expected on the basis of the 1830 Fayette Co., TN, census. This appears to be William Barnes, Sr., with grandchildren in the home.[1]

* Not in the 1830 Fayette Co., TN, census. The boys 10-14 appear to be grandsons, most likely the children of son Robert who died young.

One daughter was named Mary "Polly," but her age is unknown.

aft 1840 Perhaps Lafayette Co., MS. Sarah (Sanderson) Barnes died. No further records were found for her after the 1840 census.

Henry Simons (Jr.) is said to have been born in Hertford Co., NC, in Telfair Co., GA, in the 1830 census, died before 1870 in Saline Co., AR. He married Anne Hobbs 15 Jan 1821 in Marks Creek, Wake Co., NC, daughter of William B. Hobbs and Chloe Lassiter. Henry was the son of Henry Simons, Sr. (born about 1776 in Hertford Co., NC), and Mary Tilman (born about 1785 in Granville Co., NC). I have not tried to document these data. Whether or not Henry Simons was related to Mary Barnes or any other member of the Barnes family is unknown.

1842 Lafayette Co., MS. County tax records: Wm Barnes 1 white poll, 0 black polls. Entries are not in alphabetical order.

1843 Lafayette Co., MS. Tax records: Wm Barnes 1 white poll, 0 black polls.

1843 Yalobusha Co., MS. John Barnes was taxed on his land that he bought in 1834, pp. 11-12.

11 Dec 1843 Lafayette Co., MS. Thomas Jefferson Barnes & William Jefferson Barnes were minor heirs under 14 (born after 1829) of William Barnes, Jr., deceased, and William Barnes, Sr., was guardian. We do not know who these two boys are or who the William Barnes, Jr., was who was deceased. The William Barnes, Jr., who was a son of William Barnes, Sr., and Sarah Sanderson, moved to Texas and did not die until 1861.

aft 1843 Perhaps Lafayette Co., MS. William Barnes, Sr., died. There are no more records for him in Lafayette County.

CHILD 1 - Robert Barnes

Dianne Doyle Stevens, distevens@comcast.net, a descendant of John S. Barnes's daughter, Mary Elizabeth, had notes from her father about the names of the siblings of John: William, Bennett, Robert, and Mary. She emailed this information to Cecilie Gaziano at cgaziano1@gmail.com on 06 Sep 2014.

Joseph M. Barnes, b. 1826 AL, and Robert Jasper Barnes, b. 1828 AL, both in the 1850 Lafayette Co., MS, census are likely to be the sons of Robert.

Descendants of both of these men match Cecilie Gaziano (descendant of John S. Barnes) at a 4th cousin to 6th cousin level, which strengthens the possibility that these men are Robert's sons and therefore grandsons of William Barnes and Sarah Sanderson, last found in Lafayette County, MS, in the 1840 census.

Note from Cecilie Gaziano, cgaziano1@gmail.com: Joseph M. Barnes's 1880 census says his father was born in Tennessee and his mother in Alabama. The 1880 census for Robert Jasper Barnes says his father was born in Tennessee and his mother in Virginia. Of course, we know censuses are not 100% reliable for parents' birth information, but it appears that we can be fairly safe in saying Robert, son of William & Sarah (Sanderson) Barnes was born either in Sumner Co. or Montgomery Co., TN. I'm guessing Robert was born about 1807, and he was their first child.

William Barnes, Sr., was in the 1830 Fayette County, Tennessee, and 1840 Lafayette County, Mississippi, censuses, the only censuses there are for him (except as a child in the 1790 census with Joseph Barnes, Edgecombe Co., NC) because his earlier years were in Sumner Co., TN; Montgomery Co., TN; and Madison Co., AL, for which no early census survives.

CHILD 2 - Lilburn Barnes
According to Gene Cole (now deceased) in an email of 26 Nov 2000, Lilburn's descendants believe that he was born about 1808; his children reported his birthplace as Mississippi and Alabama. [Note from Cecilie: 1880 census for his daughter Arvazena says he was born in Alabama. The 1880 census for son William C. is hard to read -- maybe Ala. The 1880 census for Mary Jane says Tennessee. The 1840 Carroll Co., MO, census shows a Lilburn Barns, who appears to be the same as Lilburn M. Barns who married Mary Logston on 13 Apr 1843 in Carroll Co., MO. B. D. Waits and Mary Barns posted $2500 bond as administrators of estate of Lilburne Barnes on 4 Jun 1838. Mentions the Orphans Court of Yalobusha Co., but does not explain linkage any further. (B.D. Waits appears to be Brazil D. Waits, Mary's brother.)
Information on Lilburn's widow, her remarriage, and her children with Lilburn and Isaac Halk obtained from Wally Waits. Wally Waits obtained this information from various censuses and from Gene Cole. Gene Cole had information that Mary had a brother named Darrell Waits who used to visit her and that Mary married Isaac Halk. Gene reported that Lilburn's and Mary's son William served in the Civil War.
CHILD 4 - John S. Barnes
"Family Finder" DNA results for Thomas Houston Barnes, Jr., a direct descendant of William Barnes, Sr., and Cecilie Gaziano, who is a direct descendant of John S. Yalobusha Co., MS, tax list, 1834-1835; 1836; 1841.

28 Feb 1835 Yalobusha Co., MS, marriage index. Marriage record book lost. Exact date of marriage found in microfilmed MS marriages of a Texas library in Dallas. Date must have been recorded (by WPA workers perhaps) by TX library or other agency before the book was lost.

According to an unknown author in the NORTH MISSISSIPPI HERALD on 04 Aug 1938, reported in "Comments on the Early History of Water Valley," YALOBUSHA PIONEER, Vol. XVII, Issue 4, Winter 1992, published by the Yalobusha County Historical Society, P.O. Box 258, Coffeeville, MS 38922-0258: "In the fall of 1834, Mr. Carton (sic) Cannon put up a cabin on the ground now occupied by the Shaw Foundry and about the same time, JOHN BARNES, a son-in-law of Mr. Cannon, made an improvement where Mr. A. Tabor now resides." (p. 15)

Also, under discussion of the town of Washington, about two miles north of Water Valley, which sprang up about 1837-1838 and flourished for 2-3 years before being eclipsed by Water Valley: "In 1838 or 1839, Mr. G. B. Ragsdale moved up from the vicinity of Coffeeville and purchased the improvements made by Mr. BARNES, where Mr. A. Tabor now resides, and established what was known for many years as Ragsdale Stand. As stated before, the road through this valley was the Great Stage Route from Jackson, Canton, Lexington, Carrolton, Grenada, Coffeeville, Oxford, Holly Springs, to LaGrange, Tennessee.

"The first stage stand was at Mr. Charles Cock's, Mr. Geo. Dickinson's present residence, and afterwards it was moved to Ragsdale's Stand, where in 1844 the first post office was established. We would state here that Ragsdale's Stand was just outside of the county line, was never in Yalobusha County until a few years ago, when the Legislature attached two tiers of sections of the county from the territory of Lafayette." (pp. 16-17)

3 Jul 1841, James Skinner received a conditional certificate for 640 acres, which JOHN BARNES (and Calvin Cunningham) witnessed. James Skinner married two of John S. Barnes's daughters, who apparently died young, because James Skinner married one to two more times.

Texas General Land Office: File 848, Bowie 3rd Class, 294 acres for JOHN S. BARNES, 3 Feb 1845. File 220, 346 acres for JOHN S. BARNES, surveyed 19 Oct 1848, conditional certificates, never completed the patents. Conditional certificate received 4 May 1844. Cass Co., TX.

14 May 1849 JOHN S. BARNS sold 294 acres to Asa Johnson.

1850 This is the last date John BARNS/ES appeared in Cass Co. tax records.

Feb/Mar 1853 Two land transactions between JOHN S. BARNS and heirs of James Skinner Sr.

1854 Only Martha Barnes appears as taxpayer on John S. Barnes's land. This suggests that John died between 1853 and 1854.

Tarrant Co., TX, tax records which appeared to be for this John Barns must be for someone else(?). Not clear if this is a relative:

1856, 1857 Tarrant Co., TX, JOHN BARNES? paid poll tax.

1877 Tarrant Co., JOHN BARNES heirs are mentioned in Carter Cannon estate documents.

CHILD 5 - William Barnes Jr.

He is said to have been killed by the Commanche war party which killed his wife, but other evidence indicates he was killed in the Civil War. Information from a Waits researcher is that he died in Smith Co., TX, on April 29, 1861.

William Barnes Jr. married Rebecca Waits, a sister of Mary Waits, who married Lilburn Barnes, William Jr.'s brother.

June Rayfield Welch (deceased, lived in Dallas, TX) was a descendant who researched this line extensively and provided information to me (Cecilie Gaziano of Minneapolis, MN).

William Barnes/Barnes appears to have come to TX from AR, according to Mr. Welch. He was not on the first (1846) Hopkins Co. TX tax roll but in 1847 was on the roll with Bennet Barnes, neither with real estate.

22 Feb 1817 Montgomery Co., TN. William Barnes, Jr., was born to William Barnes, Sr., and Sarah Sanderson.

1820 Unknown location, possibly Alabama. Father not found in the existing censuses.

1830 Fayette Co., Tennessee. In household of his parents, 1 male aged 10-15 (born 1815/1820).

08 Oct 1839 Yalobusha Co., Mississippi. William Barnes, Jr., aged 22, and Rebecca A. Waits were married.

GREAT HANGING AT GAINESVILLE. Forty suspected Unionists in Confederate Texas were hanged at Gainesville in October 1862. Two others were shot as they tried to escape. Although the affair reached its climax in Cooke County, men were killed in neighboring Grayson, Wise, and Denton counties. Most were accused of treason or insurrection, but evidently few had actually conspired against the Confederacy, and many were innocent of the abolitionist sentiments for which they were tried. The Great Hanging was the result of several years of building tension. The completion of the Butterfield Overland Mail route from St. Louis through Gainesville brought many new people from the upper South and Midwest into Cooke County. By 1860 fewer than 10 percent of the heads of households owned slaves. The slaveholders increasingly feared the influence of Kansas abolitionists in every unrest. In the summer of 1860 several slaves and a northern Methodist minister were lynched in North Texas. Cooke and the surrounding counties voted against secession and thus focused the fears of planters on the nonslaveholders in the region. Rumors of Unionist alliances with Kansas Jayhawkers and Indians along the Red River, together with the petition of E. Junius Foster, editor of the Sherman Patriot, to separate North Texas as a new free state, brought emotions to a fever pitch. Actual opposition to the Confederacy in Cooke County began with the Conscription Acts of April 1862. Thirty men signed a petition protesting the exemption of large slaveholders from the draft and sent it to the Congress at Richmond. Brig. Gen. William Hudson, commander of the militia district around Gainesville, exiled their leader, but others who remained used the petition to enlist a nucleus for a Union League in Cooke and nearby counties. The members were not highly unified, and their purposes differed with each clique. Most joined to resist the draft and provide common defense against roving Indians and renegades. Rumors began to circulate, however, of a membership of over 1,700 and of plans for an assault when the group had recruited enough men. Fearing that the stories of Unionist plots to storm the militia arsenals at Gainesville and Sherman might prove to be true, Hudson activated the state troops in North Texas in late September 1862 and ordered the arrest of all able-bodied men who did not report for duty. Texas state troops led by Col. James G. Bourlandqv arrested more than 150 men on the morning of October 1. In Gainesville he and Col. William C. Young of the Eleventh Texas Cavalry, home on sick leave, supervised the collection of a "citizen's court" of twelve jurors. Bourland and Young together owned nearly a fourth of the slaves in Cooke County, and seven of the jurors chosen were slaveholders. Their decision to convict on a majority vote was a bad omen for the prisoners, all of whom were accused of insurrection or treason and none of whom owned slaves. The military achieved its goal of eliminating the leadership of the Union League in Cooke County when the jury condemned seven influential Unionists, but an angry mob took matters into its own hands and lynched fourteen more before the jurors recessed. Violence in Gainesville peaked the next week when unknown assassins killed Young and James Dickson. The decision already made to release the rest of the prisoners was reversed, and many were tried again. Nineteen more men were convicted and hanged. Their execution was supervised by Capt. Jim Young, Colonel Young's son. Brig. Gen. James W. Throckmortonqv prevented the execution of all but five men in Sherman, but in Decatur, Capt. John Hale supervised a committee that hanged five suspects. A Southern partisan shot a prisoner in Denton. Texas newspapers generally applauded the hangings, disparaged the Unionists as traitors and common thieves, and insisted they had material support from Kansas abolitionists and the Lincoln administration. The state government condoned the affair. Gov. Francis Richard Lubbock,qv an ardent Confederate, praised Hudson for his actions, and the legislature paid the expenses of the troops in Gainesville. Articles from the Texas press were reprinted across the South. President Jefferson Davis,qv embarrassed, abandoned his demand for an inquiry into a similar incident involving northern troops in Palmyra, Missouri, and dismissed Gen. Paul Octave Hébertqv as military commander of Texas for his improper use of martial law in several instances, including the hangings. The northern press heralded the story as another example of Rebel barbarism. Andrew Jackson Hamilton,qv a former congressman from Texas and a Unionist, had been speaking in the North warning of the danger to loyal citizens in Texas. Reports of the Great Hanging and other incidents lent support to his campaign and led to his appointment as military governor of Texas and the disastrous Red River campaignqv of 1864. The unrest did not end with the hangings in North Texas. Albert Pike,qv Confederate brigadier general in charge of Indian Territory, was implicated in testimony and arrested. Although later released, Pike continued to be regarded with suspicion and served the rest of the war in civilian offices. Capt. Jim Young killed E. Junius Foster for applauding the death of his father. He also tracked down Dan Welch, the man he believed to be his father's assassin, then returned with him to Cooke County and had him lynched by some of the family slaves. The Union League was powerless to exact revenge; many members fled along with the families of the slain prisoners, leaving bodies unclaimed for burial in a mass grave. A North Texas company of Confederate soldiers in Arkansas learned of the executions and almost mutinied, but tempers were defused by Brig. Gen. Joseph O. Shelby, their commander. Several men later deserted to return home, but Shelby prevented a mass assault on Gainesville. The half-hearted prosecution of those responsible for the hangings after the war, resulting in the conviction of only one man in Denton, increased resentment among the remaining Unionists in North Texas, but the failure of a Union League march on Decatur indicated the futility of further attempts at retaliation. bring in Federal troops caused great alarm in Cooke and neighboring counties. Spies joined the "Peace Party" discovered its members and details of their plans. Under the leadership of Colonels James Bourland, Daniel Montague and others, citizens loyal to the Confederacy determined to destroy the order; and on the morning of October 1, 1862, there were widespread arrests "by authority of the people of Cook County." Fear of rescue by "Peace Party" members brought troops and militia to Gainesville, where the prisoners were assembled, and hastened action by the citizens committee. At a meeting of Cooke County citizens, with Colonel W. C. Young presiding, it was unanimously resolved to establish a Citizens Court and to have the Chairman choose a committee to select a jury. 68 men were brought speedily before the court. 39 of them were found guilty of conspiracy and insurrection, sentenced and immediately hanged. Three other prisoners who were members of military units were allowed trial by Court Martial at their request and were subsequently hanged by its order. Two others broke from their guard and were shot and killed. The Texas Legislature appropriated $4,500 for rations, forage used by State troops here during the unrest. This daughter MAY be Mary -- I do not yet know when Mary was born.

A direct descendant of Mary Elizabeth Barnes (Dan Hale) and I have now been fortunate enough to make contact with a great-granddaughter of Mary E. She told us that her father made notes of family information from his aunt, Ella (Garrett) Zapf, who raised him and his brother after their mother, Marguerite E. (Mitchell) Doyle died. She is going to organize and type up these handwritten notes, but here is what she has told us so far: It is clear that her great-grandmother, who is Dan's third great-grandmother, was a daughter of John S. Barnes and Martha Cannon, because the following list of children that she had matched our information, of which the 1850 Cass County, Texas, census for this family is a major source.

Sarah Jane	born c.1836	Mississippi
Rhody Ann	born c.1838	Mississippi
Mary Elizabeth	born 24 Feb 1840	Mississippi
Emily Josephine	born c.1842 or 1843	Mississippi [Note: the 1850 Cass Co. census called her "Emeline."]
Martha	born 1844-1846	Texas
Berry Henderson	born Nov 1847	Texas
Elmira	born 1847-1848	Texas
John Seaborn	born 02 June 1854	Texas

Here is more information that she had: _Great aunts (sisters of Martha Cannon; daughters of Carter Cannon & Sarah)
 Mary Cannon died young
 Rhody Kelly Married J. H. Kelly. She was killed in a storm that blew their house away, and a log hit her. The house was near Fort North Village Creek, Fort Worth area, Texas.

born, was not listed.]

Great aunt, sister of John S. Barnes:

Bolly {could this be Polly?} Mary Morrison Barnes, who married a cousin. [I am not sure if this is Mary Barnes, who married a Morrison, or if it is Mary Barnes, who married Morrison Barnes, or if it is Mary "Polly" Morrison Barnes, who married a cousin whose name is not given.]

Under names of Great-Grand-Aunts: Beritrice [very hard to read the first name] with the maiden name of Tatum, married John Cannon. Also, notation that John Tatum and Jesse Tatum fought in the Revolutionary War. I suspect the hard to read name is Barthena or Parthena.

I know of a John Cannon, born c.1784 SC, with wife Parthena/Pathana/Barthemey, who was in Cass Co., TX, in the 1850 census and was associated with Carter Cannon. This may be an undocumented son of Russell Cannon.

This clarifies that the maiden name of Sarah, who married Carter Cannon, was Tatum, not Latun or Latimer as previously thought (perhaps from attempts to read old handwriting). My research in records from Pendleton District, SC, indicates that John Tatum was Sarah's father. His wife's name is unknown, although some people think it was Mary Ann Wright. However, it was a different John Tatum, also a Revolutionary War soldier, who married Mary Ann Wright. John's parents were Edward and Martha (unknown), and Edward was the son of Nathaniel Tatum & Elizabeth (unknown). John Tatum was born about 1754, resided in Chatham Co., North Carolina, and died 3 Aug 1824 in Pendleton District, South Carolina. Edward Tatum died there before 28 Dec 1810. Nathaniel Tatum may have been born about 1800 in Virginia; he died before 9 Nov 1750 in Edgecombe Co., North Carolina.
